The Meant Stomach

Doria, aged five, heard her grandmother telling grownups about the teething of Juanita, another and younger granddaughter. Later she was inquiring of a young mother, a relative, concerning her baby's teeth. "Juanita has all her teeth, but her belly teeth and her eye teeth," she informed the young mother.

INNOCENT VICTIMS

Mrs. Ray D'Autremont, his bride of two years, with a year old babe, didn't know that her husband was wanted on charges of murder and robbery until officers swooped down on him in Steubenville, O. His brother, Roy, was taken at the same time. A world-wide search for the pair has been on for four years, since a train robbery in Oregon in which mail clerks were killed.

Water Supply of City Inspected

At present the lake is filled to capacity with water flowing over the spillway. In fact all of the city's reservoirs which are located in the vicinity of the filter house at Zena are filled to capacity and no water is now being drawn from the lake.

The board recently awarded the contract to raise the main dam at Cooper's Lake to an additional height of about eleven feet. At present Cooper's Lake has a capacity of five hundred million gallons and with the raising of the dam the capacity will be increased to a billion gallons.

Building a New Road.

At the lower end of the lake the water board has been forced to relocate the road as the present road will be inundated when the lake is raised. This work is now being done by Winston & Company, and that concern expects shortly to start actual construction work on the dam.

At the upper end of the lake it will also be necessary to erect a dyke sixteen feet in height to keep the water within the lake area. This will also be built by Winston & Company.

This is the largest piece of work that is now being done by the water board.

Building Another Pipe Line.

Cooper's Lake is now fed by a twelve inch line from the Mink Hollow intake some distance from the lake. At the annual meeting of the board held earlier in the month the contract was awarded the Lockport Company to construct a twenty-four inch pipe line from the Mink Hollow intake to Cooper's Lake.

Acquires Considerable Property.

Within the past year the water board has acquired considerable property along the Mink Hollow stream from the point of intake to a point where the land along the stream is owned by the state.

Roughly speaking the water board has acquired about three-fourths of the property abutting the Mink Hollow stream.

President Schoonmaker explained to the common council that it had been necessary to acquire this land to protect the water from pollution.

Inspects The Property.

Included in the purchase are a number of houses. One or two of the houses are in excellent condition. None is occupied as they were vacated when the board took title.

The next largest property owner along the Mink Hollow stream is Dr. Daly, a New York city dentist, who owns several houses along the stream and also has a large summer place located on a level plateau which is reached by a winding road. This house is as large as many summer hotels in the Catskills and from the grounds may be obtained one of the finest views in the Catskill Mountains as the entire plateau is ringed around by the towering heights of the mountains. Away to the south may be seen Lake Mohawk fire tower.

Planning For Pipe Line.

President Schoonmaker said that one of the plans for protecting Kingston's water supply included the construction of a pipe line from Cooper's Lake to the filter house. The main source of contamination at present is the six mile space between Cooper's Lake and the filter plant as the water passes over land through the village of Woodstock before it reaches the filters.

When the pipe line is built, if it is built, it will mean that Kingston's water will be piped all the way from Cooper's Lake direct into the city. At present it is piped from the filter house direct to the city.

Planning For Future.

The water board made it plain to its guests that it is planning not only for the present but for the future, and that if its plans are carried out it will mean that there will be sufficient pure drinking water furnished to supply a city of fifty thousand.

The plans under which the board are working have been prepared by the engineering firm of Sanford & Bogert of New York city. Mr. Sanford, who was a member of the party, explained various phases of the work already accomplished and what was planned for the future.

Kingston's Water Is Good.

Kingston is being supplied with drinking water that is unexcelled and the inspection Monday gave the members of the common council a better idea of where the city receives its water supply, what has been done to improve it and what is planned for the future.

Ashokan Reservoir Full.

The return trip to Kingston was made by way of the Ashokan reservoir which is filled with water nearly to the top of the big spillway. It was about 6 o'clock in the evening when the water board and its guests reached Kingston.

ERECTING BUNGALOWS AT GLENVIEW LAKE PARK.

There has been considerable activity recently at the Glenview Lake Park at Glenview and the following people have completed the erection of bungalows on the development: Percy Babret of Poughkeepsie; Anson Armstrong of Modena; John Garrison, James Winters, Henry Swart and George Engel of this city; Alexander Hanna and W. S. Lupton of Newburgh and Henry Clement of Saugerties.

Bernhart Faber of Brooklyn has purchased a ten acre tract and is planning to erect a summer home. The Y's Men's Club of this city are preparing for their summer activities on the ten acre plot they have purchased in the park. It is said they plan to erect a lodge, lay out a baseball field, tennis courts and have a tent city.

Address, "The American Youth," Allan S. Meek

Benediction.

Financial Statement.

The reports of the officers gave in detail the varied activities of the Association during the past year. The financial report showed that the recent campaign brought in subscriptions amounting to $25,015, which will pay outstanding notes of $12,250 and all other obligations and meet the estimated budget for the year ending April 30, 1928. Total receipts during the year ending April 30, 1927, were $23,153.34; total disbursements during that period were $25,412.29, showing an operating deficit of $2,258.95. Total resources were shown to be $144,340.29, as follows: Cash, $386.75; insurance premiums prepaid and unearned, $1,318.96; land, $20,000; buildings, $95,000; equipment, $16,470; endowment fund, $11,164.58.

The Rev. Allan S. Meek of Easton, Pa., spoke on "The American Youth." He pleaded for a warm, and understanding attitude toward the youth of today who are criticized, lampooned, castigated, and trampled upon. He asked folks to make allowances, believing that there is no need for undue alarm. The chips are very much like the blocks. Because they are more limber they are less cautious. In the main they are copies of their elders.

Querulous voices always decried the manners, fashions and morals of the youth of their day. Loud lamentations against recalcitrant youth are as numerous as roses in June, not only in our day but in every clime and generation. Washington Irving in 1824 said: "The youth are pleasure mad and have no regard for sacred things." That criticism is 103 years old, how modern in tone!

After making due allowances the speaker mentioned the following ailments of youth: Craze for excitement, immersion in the superficial, money to have and to spend, lack of reverence, disregard for reasonable restraints, going with the crowd, dashing rebels taking unconventional things, living on the surface, tempted to be nasty, cocky, half-baked, rebellious, bored by duty and religion. Here and there these ailments are seen: millions of our youth do not show these shortcomings.

The modern world which gives leisure and money, so many invitations to be gay, the new freedom of woman, the working world centered in the mill and not in the home—a world created by their elders are partly responsible for the thinking and actions of American youth.

"Where lies the cure?"
"Only a few hints, allow me."

"Know your modern world where the youth have to live. Believe in youth; you help nobody until you believe in them. Give time to the vocation of living, not all your time to the task of making a living. Stand for dignified, beautiful home life. High character, symbolized by Washington and Lincoln, is at the center of American history. Our youth should stand for high character until they fall asleep. They need faith—faith in God and our accountability to him, faith in Jesus and his type of life, faith in life, and faith in each other."

Mr. Meek opened his address with a eulogy to Charles A. Lindbergh, the unspoiled youth, the lone-candle of the air who is the American youth at his best.

KINGSTON, N. Y., JUNE 14, 1927.

According to reported medical opinion a young man of respectable family stole an automobile because he had five abscessed teeth. But perhaps he also wanted a nice car and lacked the money to pay for it.

The protest of the American Medical Association at its recent convention, though officially ignored, has been followed by the announcement that the Treasury will authorize the manufacture of three million gallons of whiskey for medicinal purposes.

Dictator Primo de Rivera has come down on "harmful news" in the Spanish press. "Why," he asks, "should I permit any imbecile to write what he thinks and arouse regrettable conflict?" There is no reason except the demand of a free people.

The tobacco now burned by cigarette smokers is taxed to the extent of $270,000,000 a year—as much as the cost of the entire upkeep of the United States army. It rather looks as if the cigarette tax will ere long be sufficient to support the navy in addition.

All of eighteen Democratic Governors are said to be regarded by their friends as good Presidential possibilities. In behalf of some of them it is urged that they are "dry but not too dry"—which presumably means that they will be able to attract voters of all classes. Candidates are up against it in these times of division even under the same roof, but the policy of being reported as neither too dry nor too wet does not appear to be a very promising one.

Journeyman barbers have admitted women to their union. The master barbers, it is said, are expected to oppose the admission of women. But you might just as well face the handwriting on the wall, gentlemen. If the ladies want to barb, barb they will, all the ancient ruling to the contrary notwithstanding. And cretonne hangings and home beautiful magazines may be expected sooner or later, to deck out the places where once the cuspidor and Police Gazette held sway.

The Ontario government, which has just taken charge of the sale of liquor, has already opened distributing stores in some of the larger towns and will open others as fast as arrangements can be made, but "none will be forced on communities that prefer to remain dry." In other words, while prohibition will no longer be forced on wet communities and they will get what they want, dry communities will be left to enjoy their aridity undisturbed. Here is an admirably discriminating effort to provide genuine popular freedom.

In an Alabama college the girls are found to be doing better work than the boys—or at least, getting better grades—in every course of study. It is just the same in mathematics, physics, chemistry, economics and philosophy—the girls walk away from the boys. There are two explanations. One is that the girls get better marks in their work by "ramping the profs". One of the professors admits that the sight of beautiful and appreciative girls in the classroom may turn his head a little, so that he gives them the benefit of the doubt in grading. The other explanation is that the girls work more conscientiously, and the boys care less about their work, so of course the girls beat the boys. The latter might excel, but won't take the trouble.

BEAUTY IN SECRET SERVICE.

A published article by Dorothy Barton reveals the interesting fact that the men of the Secret Service are the most pronounced decorations of Washington's official landscape and that some of them are the very peak of pulchritude, or, according to the writer, "the most gorgeous of Ambassadors, or what an inexperienced and distant imagination might picture the face, port and figure of an Ambassador to be. As for the Secret Service officer assigned to the duty of attending Mrs. Coolidge to her walks, shopping trips or travels, he is "one of the handsomest and most distinguished men one is likely to meet in the national capital" with courtly manners of such charm as "would make an old-fashioned dancing master envious".

The immortal Keats said long ago that a thing of beauty is a joy forever, and of course there can not be too many such things, but in this particular case there may be some disadvantages. Obviously a beautiful Secret Service officer might be too readily spotted, and one can understand that the presence of such handsome fellows in Washington official circles might not be generally welcomed. Senators, cabinet members and Ambassadors no longer young and with perceptible protuberances about the waist-line may have a sneaking sympathy for the bride who sees to it that the bridesmaids shall not be too pretty. On the other hand, the Coolidge family's appreciation of beauty and self-forgetting absence of envy is altogether admirable.

NORMAL BUSINESS.

Statisticians who ask people they meet how they find business agree that there is a great difference of opinion. Some say it's fine, some bad, some hardly know how to answer. According to Roger Babson and some other authorities, the general conclusion seems to be that volume of business is good, but profits are getting smaller.

The facts about a given business situation are one thing, the psychology quite another. This much seems plain. During the war years and for a while afterward business boomed to such an extent that many business men came to consider boom business, boom percentage of profits, the normal thing. The minute profit percentages showed a tendency to decrease, they believed business was going to the bad.

As a matter of fact, just as great incomes may be produced by small profits on large volume and quick turnover as ever came out of higher profits. And what the nation's business seems to be doing is slowly returning to a condition where profits are not easy, where a day's work means a day's work whether for laborer or department manager.

Trying to dodge the issue is of no avail. The thing to do is to face it. Big and easy profits are gone, for some time to come. Small profits are here, but there are many of them to be obtained. Cut-throat competition is not the answer, either. Cutting off the other fellow's income merely means cutting down the possible profits to be made from him and his employees, not, perhaps in one's own line, but in some other which eventually starts a trickle of money in one's own direction.

The same, and more money can be made than ever, but sound foresight, optimism and harder work must go into the process. Which is far from being a bad thing for the country.

A THOUGHT ON APPENDICITIS.

We read with interest some months ago of two English engineers who were going off into a distant country to be absent for many months. Before taking the trip they entered a hospital and each had his appendix removed.

Now they were both in excellent health, which meant practically no chance of a fatal outcome, and no likelihood of adhesions or other complications.

It is not hard to guess what would happen should they have an attack of appendicitis and be hundreds of miles from medical or surgical help. The operation removed all such possibilities.

Formerly we thought of appendicitis occurring only in those individuals who did not watch their diet and other health habits, or as occurring in those with ulcer of stomach and intestine.

And get away back in 1892, a Dr. Kejnach pointed out that appendicitis was often associated with an ordinary sore throat or tonsillitis. In this connection Dr. Clarence Howard reminds us that when a patient is suffering with a sore throat or tonsillitis, the most natural thing to do is to give him cotton wool, epinephrine salts or some other purgative. In fact, most physicians will agree that this is really the most important part of the treatment. However, if the patient complains of pain in the lower abdomen, particularly in the region of the appendix, then the possibility of appendicitis should be considered, and no purgatives given. The old fashioned soap and water enemas, or cathartics as it is called, is safer, but where the case has lasted some time even this might be dangerous.

Now the point is that appendicitis may follow tonsillitis or infection from nose or sinuses, and the pain in the abdomen following these conditions may therefore be due to appendicitis.

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT

By F. A. WALKER

WOMEN AS SHOPPERS

IT WOULD be almost possible to prove the superiority of the feminine intelligence over the masculine by the fact that all women and very few men know how to shop.

The average male person is a pathetic creature in a department store. He is lost and bewildered. He does not know his own mind, and so does not know what he wants.

As a consequence he usually takes what is offered to him. His main object is to get the ordeal over and done with so that he may find himself once more out on the sidewalk in the security of the street.

This masculine helplessness as compared with feminine resourcefulness in the matter of buying explains one of the greatest tragedies of bachelorhood.

In the last century the political economists invented an imaginary creature called "the economic man."

He was absurd because he never existed, except in the minds of those who created him.

He was supposed to "buy in the cheapest market," for example.

If a man wants a few shirts or a few pairs of gloves, he is as likely as not to go to a shop and pay a lot more for them than the same articles would cost him in another establishment in the same street.

But his wife or mother or sister does not do anything foolish like that. She seems to know with unerring instinct where she can do business to the best advantage to herself.

If a man is charged twenty cents, or thirty cents, for a glass of orange juice at his breakfast in a restaurant, he may grumble because he notices that the price has been raised.

He does not think of the price of the orange that went into the squeeze, as a woman would do, and make up his mind to go somewhere else in the future.

So man, the lord of creation, is the natural prey in most cases of the modern offender, known to the law as the "profiteer," while woman is always feared by that creature.

It is a simple matter but significant. The supposedly wise philosopher who imagined the "economic man" made a great mistake to start with.

They would have been on safer ground if they had talked about the "economic woman." For she is "economic" in the other sense. She knows how to shop.

How It Started

By JEAN NEWTON

"GOOD AS A PLAY"

FREQUENTLY, when something particularly amuses us we say that the occurrence or the remark was "as good as a play." In many instances the reference is sarcastic, meaning too "good" to believe!

Most of us in using the expression are quite unconscious that we are quoting royalty. For in "as good as a play" we have something more than four mere words. We have a phrase coined by a king.

He was Charles II and it was while visiting parliament and listening to the debates that he is known to have used the expression for the first time.

In Macaulay's "Review of the Life and Writings of Sir William Temple" we find these words:

"The king remained in the house of peers while his speech was taken into consideration—a common practice with him, for the debates amused his sated mind, and were sometimes, he used to say, 'as good as a comedy.'"

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

MARY GRAHAM BONNER

THE ORCHESTRA

A little girl named Sally has asked to hear again about the orchestra that the fairies have. So I must tell about it from the very first.

One lovely summer evening, many years ago, the Queen of the Fairies said to the little fairies:

"I just feel like hearing music." "We will give you music," said the little fairies. "Sit in your summer throne of goldenrods and ferns and wear your crown of mid summer flowers."

"Then waft your fairy wand of gold and you shall hear us!"

The face of the Queen of the Fairies beamed with pleasure at the thoughtfulness and sweetness of the little fairies, and she sighed with happiness that her wish was to be made real.

"We are coming, Fairy Queen," came from hundreds and hundreds of little voices.

Then more wonderful still sounded the melody that came from all the little fairy fiddlers.

They played on their fiddles made of the sweet-smelling ferns and their bows were made from delicate twigs of bushes. Back of the fairy fiddlers were the drums.

The fairies had invited the raindrops to play the drums. They fell down on the wood grounds very softly, very evenly, with great big drops, and just kept time with the fairy who was leading the orchestra with her little wand.

But there were the flutes, too—they were played by the whip-poor-wills.

The fairies love all the shy wood birds you see, and they love everything in nature like the little raindrops that make the earth so fresh and green and give the little birds cool drinks of water.

The Little Fairy Fiddlers.

And all these little birds of the woods helped in the chorus.

It was the most beautiful concert and the Fairy Queen was radiant with happiness and delight.

The little fairy who led the orchestra was named Fairy Ybab. It's a fairy, wood-name, you see.

She had long black hair and wore a crown of silver leaves. As she beat time with her silver wand she moved her little head from side to side and sang, too, with the rest of the chorus.

The fairies played long and late into the night. They played dance music, songs of childhood and fairyland, and slumber songs for all the little boys and girls who were sleeping soundly.

"Ah," said the Fairy Queen, "how happy you have made me, little fairies."

"We shall have this lovely music often. You must all play and sing many, many times now; you little fairy fiddlers with your lovely melodies, you little raindrops that beat the drums when you fall to earth, and you whip-poor-wills with your flute-like voices."

"But Fairy Queen," said Ybab, "you suggested the orchestra and the concert, you wonderful Fairy Queen."

Indications of Progress

THE main problem of the farmer is production. He has been confronted with high wages and a lack of good labor. The progressive farmer is coming fast to realize that his only relief is in greater production at less cost and with less labor. This is only possible through the use of modern farm equipment.

Every industry has found that in order to compete profitably with conditions it must first perfect its production.

In New York State there are 193,193 farms covering 20,632,503 acres of land—today there are 1,795,383 rural residents tilling this vast amount of land.

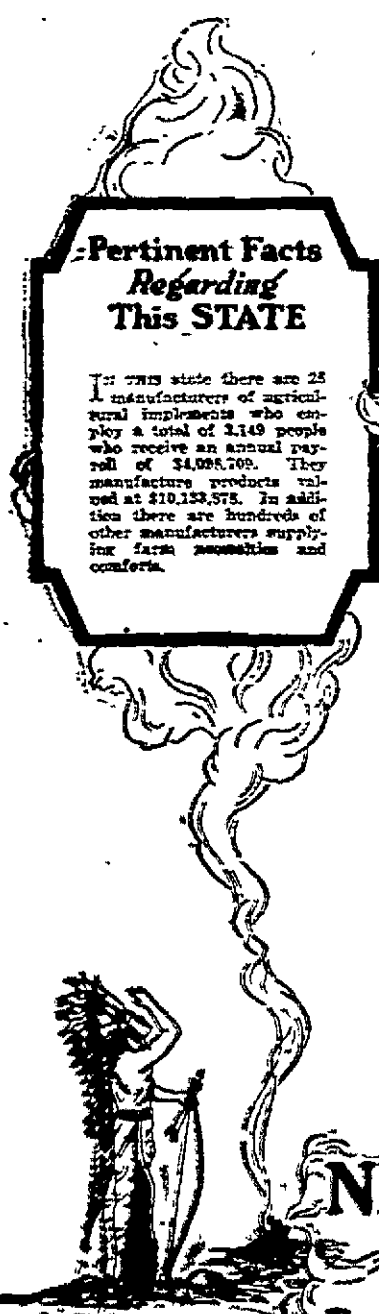

The farmer is interested in profit, he is alert to methods that will help him make more profit—he has already spent many strenuous hours trying to find ways and means to make more profit.

Every manufacturer of farm equipment has at hand valuable information for the farmer, but by nature the farmer is conservative and skeptical and only accepts a fact when his confidence has been gained.

There is no surer, safer and more economical way for agricultural implement manufacturers to tell the story of progress, of profit, of their aid to solve the labor situation, than through the daily newspaper which the farmer reads with confidence every day. He believes in his newspaper: his politics and his very scheme of living are molded by it.

There is a tremendous opportunity of service made possible by the farmers' desire for more production and the ability to reach him through the medium in which he has confidence.

The newspapers of New York State reach into every nook and corner of the rural territories of the state. We have facilities at hand which will be of interest to manufacturers interested in cultivating a market that has a ready outlet for an unlimited production. Ask this newspaper or write The Advertising Bureau, New York State Publishers, 709 Charlotte St., Utica, N. Y.

Leaves on Apple Trees

Tests made at the Adlington farm by government horticulturists showed that at least 30 to 40 medium-sized leaves per fruit were necessary to obtain apples of good size and quality. When a smaller number of leaves was present, the fruit was not only smaller in size, but was low in dry weight, low in sugar content and of poor dessert quality.

Crooks' "Voice-Prints"

A new phonographic device will enable the police to keep records of criminals' voices, and thereby have additional clues in their hands. The voices can be preserved without the knowledge of the criminal, and even though the criminal may make attempts to alter his voice, the inventor maintains that he would still retain the same rhythm.

Broadcast League Talks Thursday

Binghamton, N. Y., June 14.—Address of ex-Governor Frank O. Lowden of Illinois, which is to be delivered at the annual meeting of the Dairymen's League Cooperative Association, Inc., here Thursday afternoon will be broadcast throughout the east through a hook-up of five of the most powerful radio stations.

Not only will the speech by Mr. Lowden go on the air, but also the address of G. W. Slocum of Milton, Pa., president of the Dairymen's League Cooperative Association. This will be the first time in the history of the giant milk marketing cooperative that speeches at its annual meeting, which attracts thousands of farmers from all sections of the New York Milk Shed, have been put on the radio. In many communities local units of the Dairymen's League are organizing "Listening Clubs," to tune in on the speeches so that members unable to attend the meeting can hear them in their home community.

The speeches will go on the air beginning at 1:45 eastern standard time and continuing until 3:45 or later. Stations through which the speeches will be broadcast are:

WJZ, New York; WGY, Schenectady; WGR, Buffalo; WLIT, Philadelphia, and WRC, Washington.

Romans First to Make Fine Art of Bathing

Historical writers mention people in early times as bathing and cleansing themselves in some manner or another. Although the time of the first bathtub is fixed on or about 200 B. C., it was not until several centuries later that general use was made of tubs for bathing.

The Greeks are said to have been the first to use what we might term a bathtub, but which was really only a bowl not large enough to hold a bather and which necessitated dipping the water out of the vessel and pouring it over the body. The practice of bathing flourished and the Greeks made luxurious use of it, but it took the early Romans to develop the practice almost into a fine art.

Some of the largest Roman baths covered areas of a square mile and could accommodate over 8,000 people. For over 600 years Rome used no other medicine than her baths.

The swimming tank in the city of Maccenas was the first to use warm water. No mention is made as to how the water was heated. The earliest method was to place heated stones in the water and later using dracones, or coils of thin brass pipes, which passed through large jars heated by flames of fire.

Bathing spread to the English and in 1127 Henry I included bathing in the initiation ceremony accompanying the knighting of 600 commoners into the "Order of the Bath."

"What is my used car worth in trade?"

OCCASIONALLY you hear a car owner say: "I'm going to buy such and such a new car because the dealer has offered me the best deal on my used car."

But without understanding the economics of trade-in transactions, you cannot be sure that the largest allowance offered means the best deal for you.

These are basic facts:

- 1 YOUR used car has only one fundamental basis of value; i. e., what the dealer who accepts it in trade can get for it in the used car market.
- 2 YOUR used car has seemingly different values because competitive dealers are bidding to sell you a new car.
- 3 THE largest allowance offered is not necessarily the best deal for you. Sometimes it is; sometimes it is not.
- 4 AN excessive allowance may mean that you are paying an excessive price for the new car in comparison with its real value.
- 5 FIRST judge the merits of the new car in comparison with its price, including all delivery and finance charges. Then weigh any difference in allowance offered on your used car.

Remember that when you trade-in your used car you are after all making a purchase, not a sale. You are simply applying your present car as a credit toward the purchase price of a new car.

Tagging Major League Bases

(By The Associated Press.)

With the White Sox turned back at least temporarily in their drive to oust the Yanks from the top of the American League, their National League fellow townsmen, the Cubs, are making a spirited bid on their own.

A winning streak which had carried them to a game and a half behind the pace-setting Pirates, was fattened to nine games yesterday by a 6 to 2 victory over the Giants. First of the newly traded players to appear, Zack Taylor caught the whole game for the New York club, having been transformed from a Brave to a Giant in a day. Taylor scored one of the two runs and made a brace of hits, but the team was unable to smack them when they counted.

Washington has been a Jonah for the White Sox before and proved so again yesterday in shutting out the second place tenants, 10 to 0, for the third straight win of the series. Last season it was the Senators who cost the White Sox a share of the world series players' purse by taking fourth in the standings while the Sox were forced into fifth. Today their victory had the Sox tottering on the edge of their second place shelf. Fifteen Washington hits off two pitchers while the visitors were getting but three from the delivery of Crowder told the tale.

A good exhibition of the violent way the Yanks usually win their ball games was given as they pasted the Cleveland Indians, 14 to 6, on the wings of five home runs and ten other hits.

Names not quite as familiar as those of Ruth and Gehrig were in the home run column. This time it was Paschal, (2); Lazzeri, Dugan and Collins.

The Athletics, on the upgrade with their revised lineup, came close to the White Sox in ranking by losing out Detroit, 7 to 6, while St. Louis displaced the Tigers at the top of the second division by beating the Red Sox, 2 to 0, on the hitting and hurling of Pitcher Van Gilder. Incidentally, the Browns were the only road team to win a game yesterday.

After taking two on the chin in successive days from the Brooklyn Robins, the Pirates came back in emphatic defense of their league leadership by beating the Robins, 4 to 3. Paul Waner, the newlywed, accounted for two of the runs in the sixth with a homer with a mate on base.

GERMAN CRACK STEEPLE CHASER COMING HERE

New York, June 14 (P).—Laufjunge, the German crack steeple chaser owned by Baron Von Lyncker, is to be shipped to the United States tomorrow for competition in this country. A cablegram to that effect has been received by Racing Secretary Victor E. Schaumburg of the Saratoga Association.

After getting thoroughly acclimated the horse will be entered against the leading timber toppers of America, probably in the Saratoga jumping stakes and the new $35,000 grand national steeple chase on the closing day of the Belmont Park autumn meeting. Laufjunge won the Berlin grand hurdle race last week.

Open Golf Championship. Oakmont, Pa., June 14 (P).—Over a long, long trail, growing harder as it goes along, some 150 golfers started today on a quest leading to gold or honor, or both, as the preliminaries leading to the crowning of the open golf champion of the United States were started. Heavy clouds and mist made a gloomy setting.

The Guldy All-Stars and the Rondout A. C. will meet in the third of a five-game series at Block Park Friday evening. The Guldy's are not far from copping the trophy as they have two games to their credit. The mounds available for the Guldy's will be Joe Coughlin, who has proven the old war horse in winning many times for Manager Schatzel's team. Huber, Cragan and Walt Black. Manager Artie Golneck will do his picking from his roster of Peters, Doyle and Best.

Sunday afternoon at Block Park the Guldy's will take on the Rhinecliff team in its first appearance here this year.

Walter Kinner, who deserted the Philadelphia Athletics in 1923, has returned to organized baseball with the Portland Beavers in the Pacific Coast league.

According to Dr. David Starr Jordan, chancellor emeritus of Stanford university, California, Babe Ruth is worth about $900 a year as far as his services to the world are concerned.

The Chicago White Sox have purchased Frank Wilson, left-handed out-felder from the Waco Texas league club and released Randolph Moore, also an out-felder, to Waco under option.

With Jake Ake having considerable trouble getting his Fort Worth team started on the right track, the acquisition of Lefty Johns, southpaw pitcher, from Detroit, was greatly welcomed.

A veteran sport writer recently selected the three third basemen whom he considers the greatest of all times. They were Jerry Denny, 1890-1890; Jimmy Collins, 1886-1896, and Arthur Devlin, 1894-97.

George Mallery, Detroit outfielder, worked out with the Chicago White Sox when they were in the untenable city and looked so good that Ray Schalk took him along. He is an out-felder of more than usual possibilities.

PUTS WHITE SOX IN RACE.

"Bud" Clancy, fresh from the minors, is one of the principal reasons why the Chicago White Sox are up with the leaders in the American League flag race. He's starting at first, and he's mean at bat.

Famous Iron Crown Many Centuries Old

The historic iron crown of Italy has played a romantic part in the history of the peninsula. It was made in the year 564 by the command, it is said, of Theodolinda, the widow of a Lombard king, on the occasion of her marriage to a duke of Turin.

The crown is of iron, overlaid with gilt, and its significance was supposed to lay in the fact that the weight of royalty could never be lightened by its splendid exterior. The iron of the inner portion was traditionally held to be one of the long nails used at the Crucifixion.

For a long time the crown was in the keeping of the famous monastery at Monza. In 774 it was brought forth to be placed upon the head of Charlemagne as "King of the Lombards," and on later occasions it figured in the triumphs of Frederic IV and Charles V. Finally, in the presence of all the representatives of state, the foreign envoys and princes and officers, Napoleon Bonaparte solemnly united it to the crown of France.

The crown belongs to the state and the custodian of it is the legitimate representative of the basilica of Monza. The title of "grand custodian," however, pertains to the head of the Order of Cavaliers.

Odd Power Attributed to Wearing of Rings

The ring is an article of jewelry round which clusters innumerable legends and superstitions, belief in some of which still survives. From the very earliest times rings have been linked with good and bad luck. King Solomon believed that a certain ring aided him in forming judgments, and he would never give a decision in matters of law unless he was wearing it. Elmy records that jet rings were supposed to have the power of driving away serpents, a belief that persisted in the East until recent times. Rings of gold, ornamented with certain stones, were thought capable of warding off death by poisoning. That rings have curative powers in certain illness is still fairly widely believed. In the London Medical Journal for 1815 it is noted that a silver ring worn constantly by a victim of epilepsy effected a cure. There are still large numbers of women who regard it as a portent of a broken engagement to lose or even misplace the rings given them by their fiancés. Sailors, again, often wear a ring ornamented with an elephant's head as a charm against sea perils.

Ancients Played Hockey

Tha centuries before the beginning of the Christian era the youth of ancient Greece played games almost identical with the field hockey and volleyball of today is shown by bas-reliefs carved on stones unearthed near Athens.

Prepared

An aged Scotsman was on his death-bed. His parish clergyman urged upon him the necessity of preparing for the future life, and spoke of the near approach of the time when he would have to appear before the "King of Terrors." "Weel, weel," replied the old Scot, "an what for should I be afraid to meet the king of terrors? Have I not lived with the queen of them for the last 30 years?"—Detroit Free Press.

Work of Art

Out of the large pile of white pine, which the Division of Forestry, Mass., shipped a valuable structure carrying both ornamental and the same and the owner having wooden lattice-work with. All the work was done with a few tools.

Financial and Commercial

New York, June 14 (AP).—Acute weakness developed in today's stock market on heavy selling for both accounts. It was the first sharp general decline in several weeks, prices slipping so rapidly that hundreds of stoploss orders were recorded, with resultant breaks of 5 to 10 points in many issues.

Selling is believed to have been inspired largely by the unexpected large increase last week of more than $56,000,000 in brokers' loans, which are now within $23,000,000 of the record high for all time established early last year. While Wall Street is of the opinion that much of the increase can be accounted for by the financing necessary to carry new bond notations during the period of distribution, the gi-gantic total obviously is a source of concern in many banking quarters.

High priced shares were the hardest hit. South Porto Rican sugar (old stock) broke nine points. Commercial Solvents B. 3 1/4; General Motors and Baldwin extended their early losses to 7 1/2 points each and DuPont, Houston Oil, International Harvester, and several others sold down 5 points or more. Rails sold down with the industrials. Atlantic Coast Line and Pittsburgh and West Virginia quickly yielding 5 points each.

The rapidity of the decline resulted in the sending out of a number of margin calls. Traders who were long of stocks were eager to convert their rapidly melting profits into cash and "bears," enjoying their first victories in weeks, continued to hammer supposedly vulnerable issues, being aided by the withdrawal of buying support by several pools.

Railway Through Forest

The Nepal government railway, the first passenger line in the kingdom of Nepal, has just been opened. It is 24 miles long, extending from Bhaneshwar, a station on the Bengal and Northwestern railway, to Amleikhanj.
It cuts the traveling time between the two places from three days to one.
For eight miles the line runs through the Bhairav forest, which is the home of tigers, rhinoceroses and many other wild animals. Malaria is so prevalent that land had to be cleared for half a mile on each side of the track to prevent the spread of the disease to passengers.

Legionnaires to Elect Delegates

And Alternates To Attend County
Convention at Highland on July 16—Meeting at Legion Memorial Building Friday Evening.

When Commander Andrew J.
Murphy, Jr., of Post 150 of the American Legion calls the monthly meeting to order in the hall of the Legion Memorial Building Friday evening, June 17, a record attendance is expected to elect 17 delegates and alternates to attend the annual Ulster county convention at Highland, July 16.

Last year spirited opposition of members to various nominees led to numerous verbal clashes among the Legionnaires before the delegates were finally elected.

The delegates will be nominated from the floor and voted on by ballot. The membership is divided into several groups, each with its own favorite candidates for representing the Kingston post. Great interest is being manifested in the coming elections and some friendly but heated arguments may ensue.

Fired with the determination to push their nominees forward to election, the different factions are prepared to wage a warm battle in favor of their respective choices.
However, only seventeen members are eligible for election from Kingston Post's membership of approximately 700.

County Commander Herman I.
DuBois of the local post will preside at the Highland convention.
Legion posts from New Paltz, Highland, Marlborough, Phoenixia, Ellenville and Saugerties, will meet with the local post to elect a new county commander and transact any other business which may be brought to their attention.

At noon the delegates from the seven posts will assemble at a Highland hotel for dinner, and following the afternoon session will return to their homes in automobiles.
Commander Murphy said that the county convention is one of the most important meetings of the year. It is at this gathering that delegates will be chosen for the state convention to be held in Troy, August 4, 5 and 6.

LAST NIGHT
on the RADIO

Tuesday afternoon and evening reception was the best since June 6 and at times better than on that date. There was some static, some "whooshing" and considerable spreading, but volume and tone were good.

WEZ had a wonderful song of Bible history. A specimen line:
"Let's wife turned to rubber and then she turned to salt."

The Lindbergh reception in New York was great but when Lindbergh said "Hello, New York," in the microphone an extra strong whistle blanketed him. His speech later at the City Hall was clear. He is no orator, which is no loss as there are now too many.

Programs are being given in kilocycles, which is fine for those who know but hard on the rest of us. Divide 300,000 by the number of kilocycles and the answer will be the wave length in meters.

MISSING FLIER'S WIFE
CAME FROM YATES COUNTY.

Penn Yan, N. Y., June 14 (AP).—
The outcome of the search for Captain Charles Nungesser and Coli, ill-fated French transatlantic fliers, is being watched with interest here because Captain Nungesser's wife, formerly Consuelo Hatmaker, came from a well-known Yates county family.

Her father, Robert Hatmaker, is a native of Penn Yan, and the family's history in this section dates back to before the time of the last monarchies in France. Robert Hat-maker, after being educated in the Penn Yan schools, learned shorthand and bookkeeping, and then went to New York city, when he was less than 20 years old.

He soon entered the employ of Cornelius Vanderbilt and later became his private secretary, holding the position for many years. Upon the death of Mr. Vanderbilt, Mr.
Hatmaker was willed several thousand dollars, and about 25 years ago
Mr. Hatmaker married Mrs. Nellie De La.

Mr. Hatmaker's mother, Mrs.
Ann Potter Hatmaker, came from a family of Yates county pioneers, who had entertained Louis Philippe of France when he was an exile in this country. Many years later Louis Philippe D'Orleans, Comte de Paris, grandson of the former exile, sent a full length portrait of his grandfather to the Potters, and the picture now is in possession of a branch of the family in Rhode Island.

Barn Dance at The Vly.
The Vly, June 14.—On June 1, at 8 o'clock, a barn dance was given by Ethel Krom and Theresa Costello at The Vly. The barn was artisti-whole effect carried one back to the old-fashioned barn dances when our grandmothers were young girls.

Square dancing was the feature of the evening to the spirited playing of Jacob Connor on an accordion and John Davis on a banjo. About 12 o'clock delicious refreshments were served. Those present were:
